John West in Love With the Manchester Girl Who Escaped From Crittenden Home.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) NORFOLK, VA., Feb. 18.—The com pletion of the repairs on the United Mayflower and the collier Marcellus a this navy yard may be seriously retarded by the inability of the Board of Labor Employment to secure the skilled workmen who are required for various work on these ships.

The Labor Board has notified the Department of Construction and Repair that it cannot supply the thirteen ship wrights, ten drillers, ten machinists and the oakum spinners for which regulation was made late last evening.

This is due to the fact that the civil

MR. GOULD'S LETTER.

To-day Captain Patteson, the secretary of the Chamber, received the following letter from Mr. Gould:

N. T. Patteson, Esq., Secretary Petersburg Chamber of Commerce, Petersburg Chamber of Commerce, Petersburg, Va.:

Dear Sir,—I am in receipt of your letter of the lith instant enclosing resolution passed by the Petersburg Chamber of Commerce February 10, 1904, the receipt of which, knowing the friendly spirit which prompted the action, was most gratifying to me.

I wish to express to the members of the Chamber of Commerce my hearty appreciation of their desire to co-operate with me. The discontinuance of the Appomattox construction is in ne way connected with any action taken by the City Council of Petersburg, and I trust that certain matters may adjust themselves very shortly, so that I can continue the work more rapidly than previous to its discontinuance. It was with much satisfaction that I noticed in one of the Richmond papers/that your city was preparing to inspect the work and plans for the construction on the Appomattox above Petersburg, and any engineer that may be appointed will have every facility for this Inspection as well as detailed plans. Lust summer I endeavored to ascertain if there were not a State consineer, many States having such an officer, who could pass upon our engineer's plans and specifications, but ascertained that the State of Virginia had no such representative. I remain, Burns at 4 o'Clock in the Morning and the Faculty Lost All Their Belongings.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) GREENSBORO, N. C., Feb. 18.—The Greensboro Female College was totally destroyed by fire early this morning. A student was awakened at three o'clock by smoke almost sufficating her, and gave the alarm. There were about one all of whom escaped without injury and their personal effects were saved. On account of the headway which the flames had made before the fire was discovered it was impossible for the fire department, which was promptly on hand, to the buildings. Homes were provided for the students and faculty, and at a meeting this morning committee were appointed to see that no one of those who had lost money or clothing were appointed to see that no one of those who had lost money or clothing should have more than temporary inconvenience.

Nearly everything in the building was saved, the principal loss to the equipment of the college being that of twenty pianos two only being brought out.

STUDENTS SAVE BELONGINGS.

But few of the students lost clothing or trunks, they having time to collect all such before the fire reached the part of the building used for dormitory. The members of the faculty, with apartments in the third story, last almost everything, neglecting in their efforts to look after the students to give thought to their own property.

The insurance is $40,000, and the buildings cost $00,000. The property has been valued at $125,000 and is very valuable, consisting of ten acres nearly in the heart of the city. There is a bonded indebtedness of $40,000, and the insurance will go towards paying off this. The walls of the buildings are thick, and do not seem to be injured in the least, not a crack or fissure being observed anywhere. Whether the college will be republic or not rests with the trustees, who are equally divided in membershlp with the Easjern and Wesern Conferences of the Methodist Episcopal Church, the transfer of the property to the conferences having been made only last the transfer of the property to the con-ferences having been made only last

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

CHATHAM, VA., Feb. 18.—The third

Monday just passed in some respects was very unlike any that has ever passed in the memory of some of the oldest citizens. The usual large crowd was considerably reduced, and until after midday it seemed as though less than one hundred county citizens would be in attendance. Early as though less had one address concitizens would be in attendance. Early in the afternoon the crowd increased considerably, and the remainder of the day presented an appearance not unlike a slimly attended court. The number of nules and horsos were very much reduced, but considerable trading was carried on and saveral sales made. Trayeling salesmen were present in usual number, and the country merchanis attended in much larger number than was anticipated. The salesmen were very much encouraged with he day's business, and will continue to come on every third Monday. The merchants, in summing up the day's business, found it considerably beyond their expectations, and were very much gratified to know that the county citizens will continue to keep up the old established custom of coming to Chatham on the third Monday.
